

Developer Meetings

Developer Meetings

Developer meetings used to be regular meetings held by the OpenIndiana developers intended to keep all developers up to date, to discuss and make decisions regarding the OpenIndiana distribution, and more generally to facilitate coordination and cooperation within the OpenIndiana project. These days, meetings are summoned more ad-hoc and most discussion has moved towards the mailing lists.

Time: as required

Location: #oi-meeting IRC channel

Logs of past meeting: <http://openhatch.org/meeting-irc-logs/oi-meeting/>

Meetings are managed with a MeetBot - see <http://meetbot.debian.net/Manual.html> for full set of commands. Popular ones are: #topic #info #agreed #action #link

More human readable meeting logs might be written after the meeting, to help open the meeting results to the wider community. One example (for 24th May) is here.

Next Meeting

None scheduled

Agenda

To be defined:

1. Define meeting agenda.